When the air purge air purge was introduced an extra hole was made in the crankcase for the return fuel hose from the air purge to the fuel tank. The earlier crankcases, which had no air purge and a single hole for the fuel hose, have now been replaced with new versions with two holes. On replacement crankcases for older machines one of the holes is plugged with a rubber grommet and steel plug.

These are also supplied with a fuel hose and filter, screws for the starter and clutch cover, carburettor bolts and nuts, and, as before, quick-release nuts for the cylinder cover.

All these parts are fitted to newer machines with air purge, except for the steel plug.

The spare part number is the same as before, ref. no. 503 84 00-01.
